Coronavirus Survey - Update 4

Results of ECIA Survey Ended April 6, 2020

Dale Ford, ECIA Chief Analyst

With the spread of the Coronavirus there is a need to provide visibility on how this crisis is impacting the electronics components industry and the supply chain. ECIA has been conducting surveys of member manufacturing and distributor companies to gain an understanding of this fluid situation.

This most recent survey was conducted between Monday, March 30th and Monday, April 6th. Between the most recent survey and the previous survey that ended March 20th, the number of confirmed cases and deaths due to COVID-19 jumped by four to five times worldwide. More stringent quarantine orders have been implemented and new U.S. weekly unemployment claims have smashed records as the economic impact of the pandemic sweeps around the world.

This most recent survey reflects the deepening worldwide crisis and presents renewed concerns for the impact on the electronics markets and supply chains. Click here to read the

Semi Survey Results Show Inventory Concerns

The most recent TPC survey polled over 7,300 active industry professionals across the globe. The availability of critical parts are still a concern with lead times extending and inventories remaining low. Respondents reported an improvement in C2Q growth expectations. However, C2Q bookings expectations were weaker. Click here for the March 27th survey report.

Technology Partners Consulting, (TPC) provides independent third party consulting to electronics suppliers and financial services firms. TPC provides ECIA with a monthly report on a market trends survey administered by Glenn Hitchcock, TPC founder and president.
