Dale Ford Discusses Economic Forecast with Cliff Waldman on Latest Episode of The Channel Channel

Atlanta – ECIA Chief Analyst Dale Ford hosts Cliff Waldman, CEO of New World Economics on The Channel Channel podcast to talk about the continuing impact of the pandemic on the global economy. The two weave the multiple threads of the continuing crisis, the China-U.S. trade conflict, Brexit, and other geopolitical events into a rich tapestry that reveals the patterns to help listeners understand what’s likely to come in the coming quarters. This is one podcast that strategic planners in the electronic components industry really need to hear.

Cliff Waldman, 2020 National Economists Club Board of Governors Chair and 2019 President, is the CEO of New World Economics, a consulting firm that offers a range of forecasting and data creation services to private companies, trade groups and governments. He is also the host of “Manufacturing Matters with Cliff Waldman”, a weekly podcast show on Manufacturing Talk Radio.

“In this interview with Cliff Waldman we gain insights on the unfolding dynamics regarding crucial economic topics,” explained Ford. “Cliff gives us his expectations for growth through the end of 2020; the need for another economic stimulus package; China’s impact on the US economy and manufacturing; concerns regarding the critical small business manufacturing base, the dangers posed by ongoing Brexit disputes, and other hot issues. The listener will be richly rewarded for the investment of time in this podcast!”
